To Whom It May Concern,

We are a small company with 8 employees and 22 sub-contractors completing property maintenance on default properties throughout Central and South Florida. Kim Noh has been instrumental in organizing my business for the last five years. We started off a very small company and I kept the books myself, though not very well. Once we started to grow, the bookkeeping quickly got out of hand and was impossible to keep up with. We now complete 20,000+ jobs per year that KIM tracks through QuickBooks, as well as 1099 and w-2 payroll, reconciling our accounts, tax payments and compliance, and tax preparation.

I found Kim through a basic Google search for bookkeeping services and I'm glad I did. She not only organized the bookkeeping that I attempted on my own, but has completely removed the burden from me. She uses technology to make it easy and cost effective. She provides one of the least expensive service that I have come across, and also saves us money in other areas by sharing server hosting, QB licensing, payroll licensing, etc. with her clients. No other company I've seen does that for their clients. More important than the cost is the fact that she goes above and beyond in her services to us. We have an outlined scope of work that we pay for, but she frequently volunteers her time and expertise outside of that to help our company. Her background, knowledge, and experience in accounting and tax matters is invaluable to us and gives me peace of mind at the end of the year when it come filing time, which is further backed up by my accountants unsolicited praise of her work.

The bottom line is that, even though Kim is not an employee of our company, she is exactly what I am searching for when I am hiring. She is competent, self-driven, and dedicated to the success of her clients, and continues to help us grow. I wouldn't even consider another bookkeeping service.

Sincerely,

Jason McCabe
